More Candidates for the Prize, the Honor and the Enviable Distinction. Editors Appeal—I hope you won't over-look the merits of John Smith in your list of Memphis beauties. You will find him to answer every requirement of a modern Adonis. Ho is to be found in all parts of town. Give Smith a chance, JONES, town. Give Smith a chance. JONES.

Editors Appeal—To bring the number of "beauty candidates" up to equality with the list of aspirants to the magistracy, I "respectfully, but firmly," press the claims of a certain collector of bills—a drug man—whose bright figurehead sheds a rosy glow upon a white front of his place of business, and whose "Bay Horse" experience is such that he now applies the name to every steed which will furnish the means for such flights of fancy as are supplied by Duncan's feative nag. Our collector is avoided by debtors, not because it is not a pleasure to pay such an Adonis, but because his loveliness invested the means correctly and his sweetly rosy nose—pahaw, cheeks, I mean—melt the gold and scorch the greenbacks.

As a candidate for the honors of beauty, or for anything eise but a fight, I will back him against the world.
